

Personal Affairs Checklist

What is the Personal Affairs Checklist?

The Personal Affairs Checklist (PAC) is a document produced to help you keep a concise record of your personal affairs and papers. Investing a little time now to complete the PAC could save your spouse, partner, relatives or friends a great deal of time and expense in the future.

Who is the PAC for?

The PAC is for everybody. It is organised in three sections.

- Section 1 gives information e.g. key advisers, location of your will etc, which might be needed quickly.
- Section 2 covers your financial affairs: bank accounts, insurance policies, other assets.
- Section 3 covers other general information e.g. employment record, membership of clubs, etc.

The form is designed to meet many needs. You need only fill in those parts that are relevant to you.

What do I do with the completed PAC?

The completed form will contain confidential information which should not be left lying around. We recommend that either:

1. You keep the form somewhere safe, maybe in your bank or with your accountant or solicitor.
2. You give the form to someone you trust to hold in a safe place for you.

What is the difference between the PAC and my Will?

The PAC is not a will and should not contain instructions about what you should be done with your money or possessions. It is a record of where your key personal records, assets and papers can be located.
